DETAILS OF EASTERN NEWS.

BY THE STEAMER ORIFLAMME.

The West India Telegraph—The Mississippi Senators.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—The State Department has received information from Minister Hall that the Florida and Cuba Telegraph Company, chartered at the last session of Congress, have secured a grant from Spain for forty years, giving them the exclusive right to lay cables in Cuba. The The Company have sold their stock, and made a contract for laying a cable to Florida, to be completed and in working order by March 15th. Another Company will at once lay one to connect Cuba with South America.

Ex-Gov. Sharkey, of Mississippi, and Ex-Gov. Parsons, of Alabama, are also here, claiming to be United States Senators from these States, and are recognized by the President, who gives them control of all Executive patronage for their States. Both are reputed to have made large fortunes by getting money out of the Treasury on cotton claims, procuring pardons, appointments, etc. All three are loud in their abuse of Congress and of the Constitutional Amendment.

Products of the Country.

The report of the Bureau of Agriculture for December, says a Washington letter, contains a final estimate of the corn crop of 1866. The total result is 660,000,000 bushels in five States. In eleven States, not hitherto reported, 185,000,000 bushels were raised, against 274,000,000 in 1859; in twenty-two Northern States, 679,000,000 bushels, instead of 704,000,000, in 1865—showing a decrease of 25,000,000; while the decrease in quality is equivalent to 75,000,000 bushels, making a loss in feeding value equivalent to 100,000,000 bushels.

The cotton estimates are also completed, showing a total product of 1,750,000 bales of 400 pounds each. As actual bales are now nearly 500 pounds each, this is equivalent to 1,500,000 of such bales.

What the Indians Cost.

The task of keeping the Indians off the western track of civilization appears to be an expensive, if not a glorious, one. If there is not military renown, there is money in the business. Under the pretext of guarding emigrant trains, mail routes and telegraph lines against the raids of a few hundred Indians, chiefly armed with bows and arrows, $25,000,000 were expended in 1864, and in 1865, $56,000,000—total $81,000,000. Of this large sum only $1,642,000 was expended for the pay of troops, the balance being absorbed by the Subsistence Department, $51,533,820, and for the Quartermaster's Department, $28,374,209. The flying Indians, mounted on hardy ponies, are pursued in vain by heavy infantry, and, unless a suitable force of light cavalry is kept on their track, they will cost the Government more than their bodies and souls are worth before they are expelled. And it is more than suspected that parties interested in the expenditure of the Government fund are only too anxious to protract these wars.

Scene in the House on the Presentation of Ashley's Impeachment Resolutions.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune gives the following graphic sketch of the scene in the United States House of Representatives on the presentation of the impeachment resolutions in that body on the 7th inst:

The House to-day was the scene of undivided interest. The caucus of Saturday night paved the way for prompt and decisive action on the grave question of impeachment. The floor showed an attendance of 150 members, and the galleries were crowded with spectators. The morning hour was devoted, as usual on Mondays, to the regular call of the States for bills and resolutions to be disposed of without debate. When Missouri was reached, a member from that State opened the ball by presenting a preamble and resolution, declaring that Andrew Johnson had, in the language of the Constitution, been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, by coupling with this declaration a resolution relating to the status of the Southern States. Mr. Hill, of Indiana, made the point of order that as it referred to reconstruction it should go to the committee on that subject. The Speaker so decided amid a murmur of approval on the Democratic side of the House. While the point of order was being made, Mr. Wentworth turned to his colleague and cried out, "Let us pass it anyhow." By this time there was a gathering of members around Mr. Ashley's desk on the left of the aisle, and it was evident that the question was coming up from that quarter in a more tangible and earnest shape. The morning hour was fast expiring, fifteen minutes only remaining. Missouri still had the floor for resolutions. Mr Kelso on the 8th inst., took the resolutions offered by his colleague, erased the reconstruction portion, and offered, pure and simple, the one declaratory for impeachment. Mr. Davis of the Syracuse District, moved to lay it on the table, which was lost, yeas 40; nays, 103. By this time the morning hour expired, and the resolution went over till next Monday. There was another exchange of approving sentiments on the Democratic side.—Many in the galleries started to go, but Mr. Ashley, of Ohio arose in his seat to a high question of privilege, and after an allusion to its solemn purport, presented a preamble, reciting charges against Andrew Johnson, and following it with a resolution for the Judiciary Committee to inquire if he had been guilty of the acts charged. The Speaker ruled that it was a question of privilege; members came from the lobbies down the aisles into their seats; the galleries became more compact than ever; the gold speculators vibrated rapidly between the reporter's gallery and the telegraph in its rear; all present were full of excitement and anxiety.

Union Congressional Caucus.

A dispatch dated Washington, January 5th, says: The Republican caucus of the members of the House of Representatives to-night was attended by about 70 members. The proceedings were not altogether harmonious. Mr. Schofield of Pennsylvania was in the chair, and Mr. Donnelly of Minnesota, Secretary. The only subject considered was the adoption of resolutions in reference to the impeachment of the President. These were brought forward by Mr. Ashley of Ohio, who had been selected by his colleagues in the House to present the resolutions. The proposed action was strongly opposed by Mr. Bingham of Ohio. The ground upon which he based his opposition was that this Congress would not have time to include the trial proposed, and that as the succeeding one was eminently Radical, it would be best and safest to leave the matter to the consideration and action of the Fortieth Congress. Mr. Stevens thought there would be ample time in this Congress to do what was to be done. He was not, however, in favor of hastening a matter of this kind. He was willing to afford an opportunity for members of Congress to give due consideration to the measure proposed. He believed that it ought to be done, but was not willing to go into it unless it could be done thoroughly and certainly. Mr. Spaulding, of Ohio, opposed the proposed action very earnestly. He did not believe that any good would result from it. Mr. Higby, of California, thought it the most momentous question which had been presented for the consideration of the members of this Congress, and deprecated any hasty action. Mr. Washburn of Illinois did not think that impeachment was possible, and while he believed that the President had done many things seriously objectionable, he thought the proposition for impeachment should be referred to one of the standing committees, in order that it should be regularly and dispassionately considered before being presented for the formal action of the House. Mr. Boutwell of Massachusetts earnestly supported the proposition of Mr. Ashley. Messrs. Kasson of Iowa and Whaley of West Virginia were in favor of the reference. The caucus determined that no resolution of that character should be adopted by the House, unless sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the Republican members in the caucus, and that in the meantime this resolution and all others looking to the same purpose, should be referred to the Judiciary Committee of the House without debate.

The action of the caucus of Saturday [illegible] impressed a large number [illegible] that the sentiment of Con[illegible] against any attempt at impeachment. It [illegible] had been forgotten that the caucus was only an informal one, and that nearly two-thirds of the Republican members of the House were absent. Much curiosity [illegible] manifested as to what position certain Radical members would take, and what who took such conservative grounds would continue the same in the open [illegible]ley was the centre of attraction, [illegible] ments of Judges [illegible] other doubtful Re[illegible]

Spaulding soon set to rest the doubts about himself by moving to lay the resolution on the table. The House, by a prompt vote of 35 ayes to 105 noes, refused to lay the motion on the table. Mr. Ashley hereupon immediately ordered the previous question, which was agreed to by a vote of 75 ayes to 46 noes. This vote showed a gain for the non-impeachment party, and made matters still more interesting, some thinking that by the time the final question was reached there would be a majority in its favor. Such Republicans as Orth and Defrees, of Indiana, and Davis, Dodge and Raymond, of New York; Spaulding and Hubbell, of Ohio; Blaine, of Maine; Kasson, of Iowa; Maynard, of Tennessee, and Alley, of Massachusetts, all voted against ordering the main question. This was the test vote, and showed the positions of doubtful members. After a good deal of squabbling about points of order, etc., the final vote was taken, and the resolution was adopted by a vote of 109 ayes to 35 noes; Davis, Raymond, Hubbell, Spaulding and Latham being the only Republicans voting in the negative. The Democratic side of the House contained one black sheep, Chandler, of the Mackerelville District, voting aye. Mr. Ashley, as will be seen by his resolution, makes the charges of high crimes and misdemeanors against the official conduct of Andrew Johnson on his own responsibility. He has had the matter under consideration for a long period, and expresses himself as fully competent and able to sustain his charges. He intends going to work at once to prepare charges and show proof for them to the Judiciary Committee. This Committee consists of Wilson, of Iowa, chairman; Boutwell, Francis Thomas, Williams, Woodbridge, Morris, Cooke, and Lawrence, of Ohio; Rogers is the only Democrat on the Committee; all the others are Republicans, whose records show them to be of the extreme Radical stripe, and they are considered as strongly favoring impeachment.

Isham G. Harris.

The Nashville Union has received news that ex-Governor Harris continues in good health. Although the recipient of courtesies at the hands of all parties in Mexico, he expected soon to leave that country with a view of engaging in commercial pursuits in Liverpool, England.

The Terrible Steamboat Disaster on the Mississippi River—Three Hundred Lives Lost.

The full truth in regard to the recent burning of the steamer Fashion on the lower Mississippi, is at last coming out. The New Orleans Times says that Mr. George H. Geib, who was passenger on the Fashion, thinks there were from three hundred and fifty to four hundred black and white persons on her at the time of the fire, of whom there were not more than eighty survivors. There were about one hundred in the cabin, and the rest were negroes coming to the city on a holiday excursion, hardly knowing what for. When the flames began to sweep towards them they plunged wildly into the water, and there was no possibility of rescuing them. The twenty-seven hundred bales of cotton were piled up eight tiers high, and it was difficult to move about on the boat without coming in contact with the flames. Only those who had presence of mind, and were cool and self-possessed in movements, were saved. A few moments later in effecting a landing and all would have been lost, so violently did the flames leap through and over the burning cotton.

Judge Busteed's Decision in Relation to Confederate Money.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Mail states that the facts of the case brought before Judge Busteed, in relation to the Confederate issues as a consideration for contracts made during the war, and his decision may be stated as follows:

The defendant on a certain day during the war, received from the plaintiff a certain amount of Confederate Treasury notes, and in consideration thereof executed to the plaintiff a written instrument in substance as follows:

"Received of (the plaintiff) a specified number of dollars for a specified number of pounds of ginned cotton, this day sold by me to the plaintiff; and I agree to keep said cotton for the plaintiff, and to deliver it to him when called for, he running all risks, except only that I am to be liable for any loss resulting from my own negligence or malfeasance."

There was never at any time any actual delivery of cotton by the defendant to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff contended that although there was no actual delivery, yet there was a sufficient constructive delivery of the cotton to entitle the plaintiff to treat the contract as an extended contract.

The Court decided in the case before it—

1. That the consideration of the contract was illegal. In other words, that Confederate treasury notes were an illegal consideration for a contract made during the war.

2. That whenever a party of such contract was forced to call on a United States Court to give him any aid in carrying out such contract or recovering its fruits, the Court could not give such aid.

3. That the plaintiff in this case was calling for such aid when he invoked the doctrine of constructive delivery; for a constructive delivery is a delivery made out by the mere judgment of the law, upon the special facts, in the absence of an actual delivery.

4. That in the absence of an actual delivery, the Court could not, by its mere judgment, make out a delivery from the terms or accomplishment of the contract which was before it.

It will be observed that the Court decided nothing as to a contract which has been completely executed in all respects by the parties, although the consideration for such contract was Confederate treasury notes. A contract is completely executed when all the terms of it have been complied with by all the parties to it, and the purchase money has been paid, and there has been actual delivery under and in accordance with the contract.

Statistics of Virginia.

The Richmond (Va.) Dispatch says the whole number of acres of land in the State of Virginia before her dismemberment, was 50,536,030; the fifty counties in West Virginia, 23,190,815—very nearly half the territory in the State. The whole white population of Virginia was 1,047,547; of that part now West Virginia, 255,640—or more than one-third the whole population of Virginia. The value of real estate of Virginia was $377,947,112 17; value of the same in that part of the State now West Virginia, $83,803,641 61. Thus, according to these official estimates, this State loses, with West Virginia, nearly half its territory, more than one-third its white population, and nearly one-fourth of the value of its real estate. Virginia had 472,647 slaves, valued at $236,323,500, the tax on which yielded a revenue of $270,000. In view of these calamities, of course the credit of the State has suffered severely; her stocks have fallen from nearly par before the war to now thirty-three or thirty-four cents on the dollar. Add to these losses direct to the State, the vast amount of personal property destroyed, which most seriously affects the revenue of the State, while it produces a degree of suffering and desolation among the people unknown on this continent.

In regard to the State debt, now over $43,000,000, the Dispatch says it must be "scaled," and one-third, the share of West Virginia, repudiated, if that State will not pay it.

A Duel in Prospect in Washington.

There is a rumor that Senator McDougall, of California, and Gen. Custar, of Ohio, are going to fight a duel. The report is evidently founded on the following dispatch from Washington, January 3d, to the N. Y. Tribune: "It is stated here that a duel is in prospect. The principals are a distinguished Democratic United States Senator and a well known General who figured prominently at the Cleveland Convention. The General has challenged the Senator, but has yet received no reply. The cause of the trouble grew out of jealousies between friends about a vacant office in the gift of the President, which friends of the parties were seeking.

Persons are traveling through the South buying up all the railroad iron which was damaged during the war. Large quantities are shipped North, where the old and rusty rails, twisted in every conceivable shape, are re-rolled and sent back to re-equip the Southern railroads.

A lady from Maine who lately had some teeth extracted in a Boston dentist's, office while under the influence of laughing gas, as she supposed, continued in a precarious condition for several days, and has since died from the effects of the operation. A post mortem examination showed that congestion of the brain had taken place.

The New York Times of December 31st says during the preceding two weeks two women lost their lives in consequence of the explosion of kerosene oil lamps, which they were engaged in replenishing while lighted. Neither survived over twelve hours after sustaining the injuries. Yesterday morning an accident of a similar character occurred at No. 35 Gold street, the victim was a girl sixteen years of age, named Emma Alcorn. It appears that about 4:30 A. M., she proceeded to light a fire, and, in order to produce a speedy blaze, poured kerosene from a can upon the already ignited fuel. The flames communicated to the can, which exploded in her hand, scattering the fluid over her face, hands and on her dress. Her screams brought assistance, but too late to save her. A physician was called in, and applied such remedies as were required, but she failed rapidly, and in about six hours thereafter breathed her last.

A Moscow correspondent states that the peasant who saved the life of the Czar has ceased to attract public attention, and stories are even circulated to the effect that he only shoved aside the assassin's arm by mistake, and ran away the moment he heard the pistol go off. A fit representation of the emptiness of earthly honor.

One of the capitalists who accompanied Sir Morton Peto and his financial party to this country, Mr. A. W. Rixon, has followed the cheerful example of his chief and several others of his party, by going "through" bankruptcy. His debts are £110,000, his assets £4,000.

A family named [illegible], living in Woodford county, Illinois, have suffered terribly during the past three months with what one physician calls spotted fever, another trichina. But the strangest part of the matter is, that four of the family have died just one month apart. The mother died September 4th, a daughter died October 4th, the father died November 4th, and another daughter died December 4th. A son is now lying dangerously sick of the same disease.

As an instance of rapid locomotion, the editor of the Kansas State Journal notices his trip from Lawrence, Kansas, to Detroit, in forty-six hours. The better portion of four great States and eight hundred miles traveled in less than two days. The route taken was the Kansas branch of the Union Pacific, the Missouri Pacific, the Chicago and St. Louis, and the Michigan Southern Railroads.

Two distinct shocks of an earthquake were felt on the 7th inst., at the town of Wheatland, Chester County, New York, and in Caledonia, Livingston County. The first came at 5 P. M., and the second between 8 and 9. The shock came from the southwest and passed away to the northeast. Buildings were perceptibly shaken, and a rumbling noise was heard.

It is alleged that the recent attempts to cultivate tea in Georgia have been highly successful. The soil and climate of portions of the States south of Virginia are adapted to its growth; and, according to the estimate made some years ago, it can, by the aid of a little simple machinery for rolling the leaves, be produced at a cost from five to eight cents per pound.

ARCHÆOLOGICAL DISCOVERY.—The Paris Moniteur publishes an account of a singular cavern just discovered by some workmen engaged in digging foundations in a park belonging to M. de Rivals-Mazeres, and situated in the commune of Flac, near Lavaur, Tarn. The existence of this cavern had never been suspected by the inhabitants of Flac, and not the slightest tradition concerning it has remained. M. Grellet-Balguerie, an associate of the Societe des Antiquaires de France, on hearing of this discovery, immediately set out for the place with a few friends, in order to ascertain the probable date and destination of this subterranean recess. Upon examination they found it had been used as a fortified dwelling, one of those places of refuge which were had recourse to in times of invasion or public disturbance. It might have been one of those selected by the Gauls in Julius Cæsar's time. It consists of three vaulted chambers cut out in hard rock, and connected with each other by a labyrinth of narrow galleries, admitting not more than one man at a time. The entrance to the main gallery is extremely narrow and low, so that it can only be entered by creeping on one's hands and knees. At almost every step the galleries present re-enters angles, recesses for guards, and places where strong palisades, or perhaps heavy doors of wood and stone must have existed. The art of defence seems to have been here carried on to a high pitch of perfection. Opposite the entrance gallery a sort of "bull's eye" circular window is pierced communicating with this chamber. From this loophole the sentinel, lying on a stone bench, might watch the approach of an assault and repel him if necessary; there is, moreover, but one entrance to this chamber, and that is by the middle one. The plan of the cavern has been carefully taken by the architect of Lavaur. Another cavern, it appears from the latest accounts, has been found under the Fontaine du Theron, in the same commune, but has not yet been examined.

A SOLDIER BOY'S LOVE.—The Augusta correspondent of the New York Herald is responsible for the following:

We have a veritable Enoch Arden case, or something quite approaching it, to report, which has just come to light. During the bloody war a bold soger boy in camp in this city fell in love with a young woman, pretty, respectable, and wanted to marry her right off. She couldn't reciprocate his affection, as she belonged to another, who was also in the army. The son of Mars shortly afterward went off with his regiment. Two years elapsed, and on his return he hastened at once to the object of his affection. Her husband had not been heard from since they last parted, but once, and that was shortly afterwards, when she learned he went into the navy, and had died in the Provinces while on a cruise.

The letter she received giving this information, enclosed a lock of hair, his, of course. Vows of love were repeated. Would she have him now? A prolonged sigh—yes, and they were [illegible] A year passed away, when the other day [illegible] was received, post-marked Liverpool, [illegible] that the deceased husband was in that [illegible] was about to return home. What the Indians Cost

The task of keeping the Indians off the western track of civilization appears to be an expensive if not a glorious one If there is not millions [illegible] there is money in the business Under the pretext of guarding emigrant trains [illegible] routes and telegraph lines against the raids of a few hundred Indians chiefly armed with bows and arrows $25 000 000 were expended in 1864 and in 1865 $56 000 000—total $81 000 000 Of this large sum only $1 642 000 was expended for the pay of troops the balance being absorbed by the Subsistence Department $[illegible] and for the Quartermaster's Department $[illegible] The flying Indians mounted on hardy ponies are pursued in vain by heavy infantry and unless a suitable force of light cavalry is kept on their track they will cost the Government more than their bodies and souls are worth before they are expelled And it is more than suspected that parties interested in the expenditure of the Government fund are only too anxious to protract these wars

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune gives the following graphic sketch of the scene in the United States House of Representatives on the presentation of the impeachment resolutions in that body on the 7th inst

The House to-day was the scene of undivided interest The caucus of Saturday night paved the way for prompt and decisive action on the grave question of impeachment The floor showed an attendance of 150 members and the galleries were crowded with spectators The morning hour was devoted as usual on Mondays to the regular call of the States for bills and resolutions to be disposed of without debate When Missouri was reached a member from that State opened the ball by presenting a preamble and resolution declaring that Andrew Johnson had in the language of the Constitution been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors by coupling with this declaration a resolution relating to the status of the Southern States Mr Hill of Indiana made the point of order that as it referred to reconstruction it should go to the committee on that subject The Speaker so decided amid a murmur of approval on the Democratic side of the House While the point of order was being made Mr Wentworth turned to his colleague and cried out Let us pass it now By this time there was a gathering of members around Mr Ashley's desk on the left of the aisle and it was evident that the question was coming up from that quarter in a more tangible and earnest shape The morning hour was fast expiring fifteen minutes only remaining Mr [illegible] still had the floor for resolutions Mr Kelso on the 5th inst took the resolution offered by his colleague erased the reconstruction portion and offered pure and simple the one [illegible] for impeachment Mr Davis of the Syracuse District moved to lay it on the table which was lost yeas 40 nays 10[illegible] By this time the morning hour expired and the resolution went over till next Monday There was another exchange of approving sentiments on the Democratic side—Many in the galleries started to go but Mr Ashley of Ohio arose in his seat to a high question of privilege and after an allusion to its solemn purport presented a preamble reciting charges against Andrew Johnson and following it with a resolution for the Judiciary Committee to inquire if he had been guilty of the acts charged The Speaker ruled that it was a question of privilege members came from the lobbies down the aisle into their seats, the galleries became more compact than ever the gold speculators brated rapidly between the reporters gallery and the telegraph in its rear all present were full of excitement and anxiety

ARCHÆOLOGICAL DISCOVERY —The Paris Moniteur publishes an account of a singular cavern just discovered by some workmen engaged in digging foundations in a park belonging to M de Rivals Mazeres, and situated in the commune of Flac near Lavaur, Tarn The existence of this cavern had never been suspected by the inhabitants of Flac, and not the slightest tradition concerning it has remained M Grellet Balguerie an associate of the Societe des Antiquaires de France on hearing of this discovery, immediately set out for the place with a few friends, in order to ascertain the probable date and destination of this subterranean recess Upon examination they found it had been used as a fortified dwelling one of those places of refuge which were had recourse to in times of invasion or public disturbance It might have been one of those selected by the Gauls in Julius Cæsar's time It consists of three vaulted chambers cut out in hard rock and connected with each other by a labyrinth of narrow galleries admitting not more than one man at a time The entrance to the main gallery is extremely narrow and low, so that it can only be entered by creeping on one's hands and knees At almost every step the galleries present re-entering angles recesses for guards, and places where strong palisades or perhaps heavy doors of wood and stone must have existed The art of defence seems to have been here carried on to a high pitch of perfection Opposite the entrance gallery a sort of bull's eye circular window is pierced communicating with this chamber From this loophole the sentinel, lying on a stone bench, might watch the approach of an assault and repel him if necessary There is moreover but one entrance to this chamber and that is by the middle one The plan of the cavern has been carefully taken by the architect of Lavaur Another cavern it appears from the latest accounts has been found under the Fontaine du Theron in the same commune but has not yet been examined

We have a veritable Enoch Arden case or something quite approaching it to report which has just come to light During the bloody war a bold soger boy in camp in this city fell in love with a young woman pretty, respectable and wanted to marry her right off She couldn't reciprocate his affection as she belonged to another who was also in the army The son of Mars shortly afterward went off with his regiment Two years elapsed and on his return he hastened at once to the object of his affection Her husband had not been heard from since they last parted but once and that was shortly afterwards, when she learned he went into the navy, and had died in the Provinces while on a cruise

...e Herald is engaged in a ... undertaking As we remarked the ...lay, the most common expedient of its party ...o accuse its opponents of forming "conspiracies to destroy the Government The story of one of these alleged conspiracies we have already completely exploded The Herald finds it very convenient to avoid any further reference to that pretended plot of the Federalists, alluded to by Jefferson to prevent the election of a President in 1801. It never will refer to that subject again But it has cranked up, or rather re-hashed, another batch of "conspiracies" in which the "anti-Democratic party" is alleged to have been at various times engaged There are eight of these specifications The person who brings them asserts that if he fails to prove them true, he will consent to be written down as a falsifier of history" He has lately been so "written down" in repeated instances without his consent, and his "falsifications of history" have been proven by irrefragable testimony. The sequel will show whether he will fare any better in his new undertaking The first of this batch of allegations is as follows

That the anti Democratic party did form a secret conspiracy to resist the General Government on the pretext that the Constitution had been violated in the acquisition of the Territory of Louisiana.

So then the "anti Democratic party" set up a pretext that the Constitution had been violated in the acquisition of Louisiana, and did further enter into a conspiracy to resist the Government for that reason, and on that ground We will examine the two parts of this allegation separately.

That certain Federalists held that the Constitution had been violated by the adoption of this measure, nobody will deny But they were not singular in this opinion Jefferson, we believe, was a Democrat, and he also held that the acquisition of Louisiana was unconstitutional As we are in the habit of citing proofs for what we assert, we shall quote from Jefferson's writings on this subject.

In a letter to Breckenridge, dated August 12th, 1803, (Works Vol. IV, p. 500) he says "The Constitution has made no provision for our holding foreign territory, still less for incorporating foreign nations into our Union The executive, in seizing the fugitive occurrence which so much advances the good of the country, has done an act beyond the Constitution" He then proceeds to argue that the Constitution must be amended so that the Louisiana treaty may become valid and binding.

Again, (p. 503) he remarks in a letter to the Secretary of State: "Further reflection on the amendment necessary in the case of Louisiana, satisfies me that it will be better to give general powers" (for the acquisition of that territory) And again, in a letter to Levi Lincoln, (p. 504,) we find him proposing the form of amendment necessary to cover the case: "Louisiana, as ceded by France to the United States, is made part of the United States, its white inhabitants shall be citizens, and stand, as to their rights and obligations, on the same footing with other citizens of the United States in analogous situations." And in a letter to Nicholas, (p. 505) he says: "When I consider that the limits of the United States are precisely fixed by the treaty of 1783, that the Constitution expressly declares itself to be made for the United States, I cannot help believing the intention was not to permit Congress to admit into the Union new States, which should not be formed out of the territory for which, and under whose authority alone, they were then acting" So, therefore, the "pretext that the Constitution had been violated in the acquisition of Louisiana," was not a groundless one, if we may accept Jefferson as an expounder of the Constitution. He admits that in taking this step he "had done an act beyond the Constitution;" he declares that the intention of that instrument was "not to permit Congress to admit into the Union new States formed from outlying territory;" and that the acquisition of Louisiana could be made valid only by amending the Constitution in such a way as to authorize that measure

And now we ask, were not those Federalists who opposed the acquisition of that territory, (for only a portion of the Federal party opposed it) fully justified in hostilizing a measure which Jefferson himself pronounced violative of the Constitution? Was their opposition to it based on a mere flimsy "pretext" that the Constitution had been violated? Are not the sticklers for strict construction here caught beautifully in their own trap? Thus much for this part of the Herald's first proposition Let us now look after the alleged conspiracy to resist the Government which is asserted to have grown up out of the opposition of New England to this measure

Jefferson's stories about "Federal conspiracies," and his calumnies about the monarchical designs of his political opponents having grown stale by frequent repetition, a market for new ones was opened The office-and-salary-loving John Quincy Adams soon discovered this fact, and carried to Jefferson a large bundle of treasons specially prepared for the latter's purpose This was a regular business transaction,—Mr Adams on his part alleging that the leading men of his own State with whom he and his father had long been associated in personal and political friendship were engaged in forming a treasonable connection with England, and Mr. Jefferson and his associates and successors, Madison and Monroe, on their part, declaring Mr Adams to be a good "Democratic Republican" worthy of confidence and of public office,—in fulfillment of which he was made first, the leader of the Administration party in the Senate, next Minister to Russia, and afterwards ... London.

Adams believed that his story was true ... ought no proof to establish it. Accord... own account the alleged plot was con... om the great body of the Federalists, who ...ot entertain the idea of a separate confed... nd even so conspicuous a leader as Ames ...rted to have known nothing of it. The ... was said to have originated with a few members of Congress in consequence of ...isiana treaty But Adams himself con... n one of his letter that he had not ...vidence of the plot as would render it "prov... n a court of law" Nobody besides himself ... anything of it His desertion to the Demo... party at this time, is in view of his well ... character, to be accounted for on the ... that he was looking for personal advance... ...ther than from any fear on his part that the ... was in danger from the machination of ...om he accused of engaging in this "con... That the story of this plot was ground... e gathered from the writings of Jefferson ...lared in a letter written on the ...09 that the "expectations of ...ew England either to sep... tance had become a des... ...ndidate for re election ... which ... had carried ... in

...ought him into He had ...ed with office for disclos... but it would not secure ...piracy" there is no proof ...urnished by Adams, and ...o himself confesses, that ... be a ... could be

But granting that certain persons in New England did wish to dissolve the Union at that time, how much more blamable are they than Mr Jefferson? This ... taught that in cases of infractions of the Constitution by the Federal Government, the States having no common judge, were entitled to judge themselves of the extent of the infraction, as well as of the mode and measure of redress. As Mr Jefferson, by his own confession had violated the Constitution why should his worshippers censure the New England Federalists for taking the Jeffersonian remedy in their hands?

Suppose further, that they did wish to divide the Union (of which there is no proof,) they had the consent of Jefferson to that measure He says in his letter of August 12th, 1803 "If it should become the interest of those nations (west of the Mississippi river) to separate from this, if their happiness should depend on it why should the Atlantic States dread it?" Again he says—"Whether we remain in one confederacy, or form into Atlantic and Mississippi confederacies I believe not very important to the happiness of either part." What consistency, then is there in the conduct of his party in making such a terrible pother because a few men of New England,—few by Jefferson's own admission,—desired a dissolution of the Union in consequence of the acquisition of Louisiana,—a measure which its author declared was unconstitutional?

We shall see how the Herald will get on with the remainder of its propositions

The New Land District for Oregon

The following is the official notice of the creation of the La Grande Land District in this State, and the change of boundaries of the Oregon City and Roseburg Land Districts

Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the Act of Congress approved July 3 1866, the President of the United States has directed that an additional land district be organized in the State of Oregon, to be composed of that portion of the Northern (Oregon City) District lying between its eastern boundary and the meridian line separating Townships 22 and 23 east, with office located at La Grande, in Union county Public notice of the day on which this office will be opened for the transaction of business will be given by the Register and Receiver.

It is further directed by the President, that that portion of the Oregon City Land District included between the 3d and 4th standards parallel south, and extending from the Pacific Ocean east to the summit of the Cascade mountains, be attached to and become a part of the Roseburg District. The Register and Receiver at Roseburg will give public notice of the day on which they will be prepared to receive applications for the entry of vacant lands situated within the attached area

Given under my hand, at the General Land Office, in the City of Washington, D C, this 26th day of July, A. D 1866

By order of the President

Commissioner of the General Land Office

INDIAN FIGHT IN IDAHO.—An extra of the Owyhee Avalanche, dated the 19th inst., says Louis Lobenstein accompanied the stage to Boonville this morning, where he met a military express man with dispatches from General Crook, who has recently had a fight with the Indians about fifteen miles from the Owyhee ferry Mr. Lobenstein writes to his brother in Silver City, that General Crook returned to Camp Lyon yesterday, with one hundred prisoners and thirty six horses captured The number of killed is not stated, but is understood to be large A camp of five hundred warriors was found, and they are on the war path The General has despatched messengers to the different camps for additional troops, and we understand would like the aid of citizens He expects a big fight soon, and is going for it

MAIL CARRIER CAPTURED.—The following extracts are from a letter written by S Duncan, Agent of the California and Idaho Stage Line, at Summit Lake The letter is dated January 5th, and directed to Messrs. De Haven and Crosby He says:

I regret to report the probable capture by the Indians of Mr Westover, the mail rider between this point and Trout creek Mr Westover left on the morning of the 1st, with 75 pounds of mail matter packed on one horse while he rode another He reached Vicksburg mines that evening, and started next morning Not reaching Trout creek that day nor the next, Frenchy, the rider from Trout creek to White Horse, started down on the 4th with the Ruby mail to meet him and reached Vicksburg mines that night Learning the state of the case he came immediately on with the mails and reached this place at 9 o clock this morning. Col Brackett promptly started Lieut ... with ... men within three hours in search of Westover and the Indians ... it is generally believed captured him It is thought he must have been caught in the neighborhood of Hot Springs, as the last traces of horse tracks were seen there

Col Brackett is deserving of great credit for his promptness in tendering assistance and his determination to protect the route Lieutenant ... is an energetic officer who will follow the Indians to their dens if he finds their trail.

POOR PEOPLE AND POOR MONEY.—Henry Ward Beecher, not long since, preached a sermon in which the following passage occurred

In all the troubles and mischiefs that arise from false weights and spurious currency it is usually the poor who suffer the most Here is a spurious quarter of a dollar The merchant in whose hands it chances to have fallen, ... of course, (for merchants are always ...) ... passes it to the trader, and he, seeing that it does not look quite right, but not thinking it worth while to scrutinize it too closely, passes it to the grocer and he glancing at it and not liking the looks of it exactly but ... and saying, "I took it ... and I must get rid of it" passes it to the market man ... and he saying ... it ... as well be kept traveling" passes it as he is journeying to the conductor and he ... it ... anything ... the man ... "I will keep it and give it to somebody else" ... passes it to the sewing woman She is poor, and a person that is poor is always watched, and when she offers it it is discovered to be spurious and is refused and she looks at it and says "It is nearly my whole day's wages but it is counterfeit and ... I must not pass it" and she burns it up and so is the only honorable one among them all Bad bills spurious currency, almost always settle on the poor at last

MILITARY ORDERS.—In the Alta California of the 31st, we find the following General Orders issued by General Halleck Jan 29th

The District of Boise in the Department of the Columbia, will be discontinued

Fort Boise, Camp Lyon Camp Winthrop Camp C F Smith and Camp Warner will constitute the District of Owyhee

Camps McDermitt and Winfield Scott without being detached from the Department of California will be subject to the orders of the commanding officer of the Owyhee District so far as concerns the guarding of the public roads and making expeditions against hostile Indians

Brevet Major General George Crook Lieutenant Colonel Twenty Third Infantry, is assigned to the command of the District of Owyhee

No military officer in this Division will make any treaty with Indians without special authority from these headquarters All hostile Indians who may be captured or who may surrender, will be held as unconditional prisoners of war, and be disposed of as may hereafter be directed

Explorations in California—The Borax Lake and Sulphur Banks in Napa Valley

Dr MacGowan writes to the New York Post, from Napa Valley, California

Borax Lake is about one hundred miles north of San Francisco Properly speaking, it is a pond, being only one mile long and half a mile wide It is situated on a peninsula which juts into Clear Lake, from which it is separated by a mountain It is, in brief, a crater of an extinct volcano, or at least presenting that appearance That my readers may duly appreciate the rarity of the curiosity before him, I remind him that probably no white man ever saw its like—there being no other of the kind save in Thibet Before the discovery of Borax Lake in California, there were but two sources of supply of borax to meet the demand of the world—that of Thibet, and that of a firm in Liverpool who manufactured the article by a chemical process

Iron coffer dams, having chambers about five foot square, are sunk in the lake, the water is baled out of the dams, the mud in them being pressed by men stamping on boards that cover it and the concrete mass taken ashore and dried in the sun, the largest borax crystal being picked up during this operation Crystals are found from the size of a hen's egg to that of a pea. The earth, which is strongly impregnated with that of borate of soda—bi borate, strictly speaking—is subjected to lixiviation, and the saturated water is slowly evaporated in heated boilers until the octohedral crystals are formed. In the sediment of iodine, silicic acid, silicate of lime, and alumina, the first is likely to prove valuable At the present time about four thousand pounds of borax are obtained daily, ten to fifteen tons will be the daily yield on the completion of the works The supply may be regarded as illimitable, and sufficient for the demands of the world It is constantly forming, and soon there will be no borax in use in the arts and in medicine save that which the Golden State will furnish.

A hill about six hundred feet high separates Borax Lake from the sulphur banks There is no human habitation in sight save the works of the Borax company but cattle are browsing on the salt meadows adjacent to the lake, and on its borders are swine feasting on the larvæ of a fly, which is found on the margins forming an organized belt a yard or more wide, and a foot in depth The only other inhabitant of those waters is a leech It is hardly necessary to add that the specific gravity of the lake renders it impossible that a man should be drowned in its healing waters—healing the ulcers of animals that are driven in for that purpose

The sulphur banks are on the margin of Clear Lake, an extensive deposit—the deposition being still in progress Extensive works for sublimating the element have just been completed Sulphur is poured out from retorts in constant streams into boxes holding 200 pounds each, affording to the Borax company, at a trifling expense, a daily supply of 180 such boxes if they see fit to draw on their brimstone bank to that extent

Here we have an insight into one section of nature's laboratory Would you learn how bicarbonate of soda is formed in Borax Lake? Scoop out of this pool some of its water, which is charged with carbonic gas, first quaff some of the delectable fluid, and pour it into yonder pool of boracic acid, a pleasant palatable liquid and mark the effervescence! The brisk action now going on is due to the fact that boracic acid has a strong appetite for soda while carbonic acid is only too ready to get rid of that alkali two portions of boracic acid seize the forsaken soda and form borax while divorced carbonic acid bubbles up as if rejoicing in its emancipation That is what causes the commotion in the pool, and that is precisely the operation which is taking place in Borax Lake

Walk into one of the trenches that is dug in the bank of sulphur, and watch the formation of beautiful circular crystals of sulphur from the condensation of the stifling vapors around you—These crystals fill little crevices, wherein you will discover cinnabar and opal You are admonished not to stoop for the carcasses of hares and pigeons indicate that streams of carbonic acid are flowing in this trench, and, indeed turn where you will you are well nigh overpowered by sensations as if naught but mephitic vapors could be inhaled in this desolate little bog The desolation is, however, circumscribed, beyond the limited sulphur area there is luxuriant vegetation, from the beautiful campana, which marks the spot where boracic acid mixes with the waters of Clear Lake to the pine clad summits of the mountains

SUCCESSFUL BURGLARY—STOWELL CHAMBERLAIN & CO's SAFE BLOWN OPEN AND ROBBED.—Our town was startled on Friday morning by the discovery of a great burglary in the Banking Office of Messrs Stowell Chamberlain & Co The safe was a double one made by Lewis Lillie & Son of the largest size weighing many thousand pounds The burglars obtained an entrance into the office by prying open one of the windows with a jimmy In the lower left hand corner of the right hand outer door of the safe which was two inches thick, a hole was drilled through which powder was introduced It was blown open separating the outside from the bolts and inside casing, rendering it a complete wreck The lower hinges of both doors were broken off. FLOUR FOR NEW YORK.—Messrs Saver & Co of this city are prepar[illegible] th[illegible] flour [illegible] me it to New York through [illegible] Knapp Burrell & Co It is into de to [illegible] by the steamers Oriflamme and Moses Taylor [illegible] and from San Francisco [illegible] to [illegible] going steamer The [illegible] Charles [illegible] Esq, New York agent for Messrs Knapp Burrell & Co The flour to be [illegible] of [illegible] Extra brand This we believe will be the first [illegible] shipment of Oregon flour to New York by any route [illegible] way of the Isthmus The [illegible] will be looked for with [illegible] interest as [illegible] successful it will open to Oregon a new market [illegible] flour and allay those many fears [illegible] have expressed that ere forth the grain product of the State must be turned in some other direction [illegible] winter, sent [illegible] to New York via the Isthmus, [illegible] believed that the shippers will realize more [illegible] rate [illegible] certain intelligence has been received [illegible] sales beyond retail parcels. The Mercantile Gazette of the 13th in reviewing the week just closed, remarks

"The chief feature of the market for the period [illegible], has been the purchase of several thousand barrels of Extra Family and Bakers brands for transit to New York by steam via the Isthmus. The quantity engaged to go forward by the Moses T[aylor] on the 13th instant coupled with that previously forwarded by the same route, will not fall much short of [illegible] barrels Not a little has been secured [illegible] in quarter sacks enclosed in gunny bags This makes a [illegible] convenient package to handle in its transit across the Isthmus Flour thus packed costs delivered free on board ship $8 25@8 50 ꝑ 196 lbs for best Extra brands By the present steamer shippers [illegible] to forward in barrels—both runs [illegible]

The rate of freight by the Isthmus from San Francisco to New York is $5 per barrel [illegible] shipment. Imperial Extra flour [illegible] at $5 50 per barrel Say that it pays $3 per freight to San Francisco and $3 per barrel on the latter place to New York with [illegible] insurance added, it can be laid down in New York for $9 equivalent to $12 60 in currency. On the 24th ult flour was quoted in New York at $10@ [illegible] as extreme. The latter price being that for Messrs [illegible] Trade' brands, by which is meant the [illegible] from the Northern States east of the Miss[issippi] river were quoted at $12 50@[illegible] In all those States the wheat crops for two or three years have been inferior [illegible] quality and the flour from it, consequently ranks far below Missouri flour, which is the best brand now in market It is believed that California and Oregon Extra flour made from sound wheat, will take rank with the leading brands at least, and bring $15 per barrel in currency The margin then, at the present time is apparently $[illegible] per barrel in currency, or $1 85 coin It is a wonder then that it is afforded by the San Francisco market [illegible] it is true the risks of finding a falling market and the time consumed must take something from it

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We glean the following from the Enterprise of the 2d The high water has so far obstructed the operations at the Factory in this city that work has been suspended for a short time .. The lower portions of land between this city and Clackamas are almost wholly flooded ......Rev L D Driver, as per request of the members of Multnomah Lodge No 1 A F and A M, will deliver a lecture in the [illegible] hall in Oregon City on [illegible] the 9th of February inst, at 7 o'clock P M upon the principles and symbolism of Free Masonry ... Capt John Apperson first commander of the steamer Active, is now on deck of the [illegible] plying between this city and Lafayette. His old friends many of them prominent shippers on the upper rivers will be pleased to meet him again occasionally On Tuesday he reported high water in the Yamhill ...Mr. Wm News an employee of the People's Transportation Company at this city, met with a serious accident on Tuesday last by falling while engaged in moving a heavy gang plank He fell from the upper deck a distance of something like fourteen feet, and was so badly hurt that he had to be carried away He was provided with a room at the Cliff House where medical assistance was obtained and on Wednesday was taken to his residence on Bluff street We are pleased to learn that he is fast improving Within the past week considerable land in this county has changed hands. They have purchased an eligible site at Oswego for a tip top hotel And in this city one of the most valuable privileges for manufacturing purposes on the entire coast, is about ready to be assigned over to gentlemen whose able management and shrewd tact is sufficient guarantee that they will shortly convert it to practical use.

CHINESE NEW YEAR.—To day will be celebrated by the Chinese population as their New Year The[y were] industrious yesterday, and for several days [illegible] making the most extensive preparations for [the observ]ance of the day Like the Americans they [illegible] wait for the day to arrive before giving vent to their overflowing enthusiasm but began their celebration [the] day before, by way of preface Alder street was made somewhat lively by the stir of Celestials and numerous visitors curious to see the preparations Among others, we then into one house to see the fine [illegible] god "Ching Chung Josh," and found that worthy seated in state in a niche, before him and around him burning rushes wax candles, and other curious combustible materials and before him a sort of bar or table on which was placed all sorts of eatables and drinkables, all got up in the most approved style of Celestial cookery Josh was frequently appealed to in the most hospitable terms to help himself, but up to the time we left, he merely sat in grim silence, not deigning to touch, much less eat a morsel of the dainties set so [illegible] before him In another part of the house a [illegible] was burning other candles, rushes, paper etc [illegible] prayers, incantations, and prophesying all sorts of good luck for the coming year To day, the devotees will, themselves, consume all the edibles which Josh and his staff of lesser gods may not have disposed of during the night. As reporter for the press we had a special invitation to participate in the festivities of to-day and we shall be there, sure, if not to eat (we do not think we have any strong hankering in that direction,) at least to see

THE MURDERER OF MR. RICKEY.—The police detective, have [illegible] that the murderer of the old man Rickey for six days after the murder was committed On the night of the 22d, he stayed at a house of ill fame in this city and exhibited to one of the inmates a glass eye which he could put in or take out at pleasure He also showed two watches and some finger rings At 9 o clock, on the evening of the 23d he again appeared at the same house, saying that he had lost some money the night before He was in a state of high excitement and is described as "looking pale as a ghost. He immediately left and from that time the trail is lost, though he is supposed to have taken a certain direction and an officer will be [illegible] on his supposed track The City Marshal furnishes [illegible] with a more particular description of the man [illegible] since the posters offering a reward, were issued He is about 5 feet 9 or 10 in height, light or sandy hair, no hair on the face except a mustache which is naturally light, but has been seen colored right eye gone, looks red and inflamed, dressed in brown or snuff [illegible] which he bought about the 21st ult, with a [illegible] woolen shirt and white hat He is a German [illegible] and about 28 or 30 years old From the fact of his using dye for his hair and mustache and wearing a glass eye at pleasure he will be the harder to detect, and it behooves persons on the lookout for him to [watch] very closely or they may be deceived.

WEATHER AT PORTLAND.—Whoever has observed the weather reports from different sections of the country, will not have failed to observe also that Portland has more rain, more snow and more cloudy weather than the country up the Willamette or that up the Columbia We have heard [illegible] account for the fact on the philosophical theory that the cold winds coming down the Columbia river gap, meet here the warm and moist winds from the south and by the operation of a well known physical law, precipitate the moisture of the latter in the form of rain or snow according to the intensity of the cold This explanation may satisfy theorizers and philosophers, but it don't do for your practical hard worker who never looked in the books and who is not therefore likely to be fooled by the [illegible] of larnin' We heard one of them, a day or two since account for it, seriously, on the [ground] that Portland being the largest town in the State must naturally have more weather of any specified description than the little places After forty eight hours of [illegible] mental reflection on the subject and a careful [perusal] of Governor Whiteaker's last message, we are yet quite [illegible] about the whole matter Won't somebody give us light?

BOOK BINDING.—H. P. Cramer & Co have just finished the binding of a very large family bible for Mr C M Carpenter of Salem which, as a fine piece of workmanship will compare favorably with any thing of the kind from Eastern binderies. The style is rich and the [illegible] is perfect so far as we can judge The volume is itself something far out of the ordinary line of bible works. It has over one hundred [illegible] highly embellished steel engravings and over eight hundred explanatory and critical notes being a full analysis of each chapter Some of these notes are equal to an ordinary page and in the aggregate, they fill nearly half of the 1,000 pages which make up the volume

WASHINGTON GUARDS BALL.—The Washington Guards of this city, will give their 4th annual ball on the anniversary of Washington's birth the 22d inst at Oro Fino Hall. The Committee [illegible] is composed of gentlemen who know how to do it and do it right We hope to see our citizens [illegible] reception on this occasion of this Company which has kept up a perfect organization, through [illegible] circumstances, by giving them a large [illegible]

CANYON CITY QUARTZ.—Mr W [illegible] Hall of this city has received certificates of the assay of [illegible] Canyon City quartz which shows the yield of gold [illegible] $461 93 per ton, and silver, $19 08 The lode from which it was taken is [illegible] feet wide. This shows a very flattering prospect for the Canyon City quartz mines

The [illegible] of the Return of Minister Campbell to New Orleans

[From the Special Correspondence of the New York Herald]

NEW ORLEANS, Dec 22

The [illegible] mission having accomplished its ends [illegible] General Sherman and Minister Campbell [illegible] each returned by separate routes to the States There remains no longer any obligation [illegible] which need debar me from placing [before the] readers of the Herald the objects [illegible] the ends gained by the expedition though it has not achieved all that [illegible] hoped of it has not been by any means [illegible] It has opened up communication with [illegible] of Mexico, and has defined and determined [illegible] a joint plan of action which in the [illegible] will be adopted by the United States [illegible] the Juarez Government moving in concert.

The [illegible] of the Susquehanna's visit to Vera Cruz have already been made known by special telegram [illegible] Herald. The sole reason why the members of the expedition did not land there was because the military landing place of the port is now in the possession of the Maximilian authorities, and to have attempted a disembarkation there would have [illegible] an informal recognition of a Government that is not known at Washington. Nothing [illegible] passed between the French authorities [illegible] the Susquehanna. Bazaine's polite letter to General Sherman, inviting him to the City of Mexico, was replied to by General Sherman in terms equally courteous and friendly.

On leaving Vera Cruz the Susquehanna at once proceeded to Tampico, where accredited emissaries of Juarez awaited the Ambassadors of the United States. After a brief consultation they went to Matamoras, where another short council was held with the confidential agents of Juarez, and the result is that a definite and joint plan of action has been determined on between the United States and [illegible] immediately after the [illegible] the first of [illegible] present. "[illegible] said [illegible] Sherman to [illegible] military man, consider well chosen [illegible] plans have been laid before me, and [illegible] them, upon the whole, judicious and [illegible]. Then, in the event of any fragment of [illegible] power remaining United States troops [illegible] correspondent has strong grounds for [illegible] will be marched over the Rio Grande to [illegible] of Juarez, and Minister Campbell [illegible] to the Mexican seat of government to [illegible] official relations with the Republic of [illegible]

This much being accomplished, I asked of Sherman, 'Do you [illegible] your mission a failure, or a success?' He [illegible] To some extent a success We are [illegible] ascension of the plans of the Juarez Government and they know what we mean to do Just [illegible] much mixes the opposing pieces of central [illegible] centrifugal attraction produce certain [illegible] in Mexico the fear of French absorption on the one hand and the dread of American annexation on the other have brought about some degree of unanimity among their leaders I wish there was more of it, but we must hope for the best All the United States want to see is a strong, united Government in Mexico "

Lieutenant General Sherman leaves to-morrow for St Louis to report to General Grant, and to resume the charge of his department. Minister Campbell will remain in New Orleans to await the tide of events, and the Susquehanna will return to New York

There remain yet some important items of general Mexican news Maximilian left his palace prison of Orizaba on the 14th inst., en route for Mexico City I was a personal witness of his departure, so often prematurely announced His last words before getting into his carriage were—'If I am compelled to remain I will remain within the lines'" On the 15th, Max had arrived at Atlasco, six leagues beyond Puebla His avowed purpose in going back is not to perpetuate his power, but to thwart the French and spite Bazaine He is ready to treat with Juarez or the United States to secure this end.

This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of Coffee consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice

San Francisco Legal Tenders [illegible]
New York Gold Quotations [illegible]

FLOUR FOR NEW YORK.—Messrs. [illegible] & Co., of this city, are preparing [illegible] for shipment to New York [illegible] house of Knapp, Burrell & Co. It is intended [illegible] by the steamers Oriflamme and Montana on their first down trip, and from San Francisco [illegible] by the next outgoing steamer. The consignment [illegible] Charles [illegible], Esq., New York agent [illegible] Knapp, Burrell & Co. The flour to be sent [illegible]. This we believe will be the first [illegible] of Oregon Flour to New York by any route, [illegible] the first by way of the Isthmus. The result of the venture will be looked for with much interest; if successful, it will open to Oregon a new market for its [illegible] flour, and allay those many fears which [illegible] that, henceforth, the grain products [illegible] must be turned in some other [illegible] winter, [illegible] to New York via the Isthmus, and [illegible] believed that the shippers will realize moderate [illegible] intelligence has been received of sales beyond retail parcels. The [illegible] of the 19th, in reviewing the week just closed, remarks:

"The chief feature of the market for the period before us, has been the purchase of several thousand barrels of Extra Family and Bakers' brands, for transmission to New York by steam via the Isthmus. The quantity engaged to go forward by the [illegible] on the 15th instant, coupled with that previously forwarded by the same route, will not fall much short of [illegible] of 12,000 barrels. Not a little has been sent [illegible] and [illegible] enclosed in gunny bags. This makes a safe and convenient package to handle in its transmission across the Isthmus. Flour thus packed costs, delivered free on board ship, $6 25@6 50 ₩ 100 lbs for [illegible] Extra brands. By the present steamer several thousand [illegible] we are told, go forward in barrels—both [illegible] and the [illegible]."

The rate of freight by the Isthmus from San Francisco to New York is $1 per [illegible] payable at time of shipment. Imperial Extra [illegible] in the market here is quoted at $5 50 per barrel. [illegible] $1 per ton freight to San Francisco and [illegible] per barrel from the latter place to New York, with [illegible] wharfage and insurance added, it [illegible] New York for $7 25, equivalent to $12 50 in currency. On the 24th ult. flour was quoted in New York at $1[illegible] 75 as extremes, the latter price being that for Missouri [illegible] brands. "[illegible] Trade" brands, by which [illegible] the Northern States east of the Mississippi river, were quoted at $12 50@[illegible]. In all those states the wheat crops for two or three years have been inferior [illegible], and the flour from it, consequently, ranks far below Missouri flour, which is the best brand now in market. It is believed that California and Oregon Extra flour, made from plump, sound wheat, will take rank with the leading brands, at least, and bring $15 per barrel [illegible] The margin, then, at the present time [illegible] $2 50 per barrel in currency, or $1 65 coin. It is a wider one than that afforded by the San Francisco markets, though it is true, the risks of finding a falling market and the time consumed, must take something from it.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We glean the following from the Enterprise of the 2d: The high water has so far obstructed the operations at the Factory in this city that work has been suspended for a short time......The lower portions of land between this city and Clackamas are almost wholly flooded......Rev. T. D. Oliver, as per request of the members of Multnomah Lodge No. 1, A. F. and A. M., will deliver a lecture in their hall, in Oregon City, on Saturday, the 9th of February inst., at 7 o'clock P. M., upon the principles and symbolism of Free Masonry......Capt. John Apperson, first commander of the steamer Active, is now on deck of the Union, plying between this city and Lafayette. His old friends, many of them prominent shippers on the upper rivers, will be pleased to meet him again occasionally. On Tuesday he reported high water in the Yamhill......Mr. Wm. Newman, an employee of the People's Transportation Company at this city, met with a serious accident on Tuesday last, by falling while engaged in moving a heavy gang plank. He fell from the upper deck a distance of something like fourteen feet, and was so badly hurt that he had to be carried away. He was provided with a room at the Cliff House, where medical assistance was obtained, and on Wednesday was taken to his residence, on Bluff street. We are pleased to learn that he is improving......Within the past week considerable land in this county has changed hands. Parties have purchased an eligible site at Oswego for a tip-top hotel. And in this city one of the most valuable privileges for manufacturing purposes on the entire coast, is about ready to be assigned over to gentlemen whose able management and shrewd tact is sufficient guarantee that they will shortly convert it to practical use.

CHINESE NEW YEAR.—To-day will be celebrated by the Chinese population, as their New Year. They were very industrious yesterday, and for several days [illegible] in making the most extensive preparations for [illegible] ance of the day. Like the Americans they could not wait for the day to arrive, before giving vent to their accumulating enthusiasm, but began their celebration the day before, by way of preface. Alder street was made somewhat lively by the stir of Celestials, and numerous visitors curious to see the preparations. Among others, we then into one house to see the famous god, "Ching Chung Josh," and found that worthy seated in state in a niche, before him and around him, burning rushes, wax candles, and other curious combustible materials, and before him a sort of bar or table on which was placed all sorts of eatables and drinkables, all got up in the most approved style of Celestial cookery. Josh was frequently appealed to in the most hospitable terms to help himself, but up to the time we left, he merely sat in grim silence, not deigning to touch, much less eat, a morsel of the dainties set so temptingly before him. In another part of the house, a priestess was burning other candles, rushes, paper, etc., performing prayers, incantations, and prophesying all sorts of good luck for the coming year. To-day, the devotees will, themselves, consume all the edibles which Josh and his staff of lesser gods may not have disposed of during the night. As reporter for the press, we had a special invitation to participate in the festivities of to-day and we shall be there, sure, if not to eat (we do not think we have any strong hankering in that direction,) at least to see.

THE MURDERER OF MR. RICKEY.—The police detective, have traced the murderer of the old man Rickey for six days after the murder was committed. On the night of the 22d, he stayed at a house of ill-fame in this city and exhibited to one of the inmates a glass eye which he could put in or take out at pleasure. He also showed two watches and some finger rings. At 9 o'clock, on the evening of the 23d, he again appeared at the same house, saying that he had lost some money there the night before. He was in a state of high excitement and is described as "looking pale as a ghost." He immediately left and from that time the trail is lost, though he is supposed to have taken a certain direction and an officer will be hot on his supposed track. The City Marshal furnishes us with a more particular description of the man, obtained since the posters offering a reward, were issued. He is about 5 feet 9 or 10 in height; light or sandy hair; no hair on the face except mustache which is naturally light, but has been seen colored; right eye gone, looks red and inflamed, dressed in brown or snuff-colored suit, which he bought about the 21st ult., with a checked woolen shirt and white hat. He is a German from Cassel, and about 28 or 30 years old. From the fact of his using dye for his hair and mustache and wearing a glass eye at pleasure, he will be the harder to detect, and it behooves persons on the lookout for him to scan [illegible] very closely or they may be deceived.

WEATHER AT PORTLAND.—Whoever has observed the weather reports from different sections of the country, will not have failed to observe, also, that Portland has more rain, more snow and more cloudy weather than the country up the Willamette or that up the Columbia. We have heard persons account for the fact, on the philosophic theory that the cold winds coming down the Columbia river gap, meet here, the warm and moist winds from the south and by the operation of a well known physical law, precipitate the moisture of the latter in the form of rain or snow, according to the intensity of the cold. This explanation may satisfy the [illegible] and philosophers, but it don't do for your practical hard worker who never looked in the books and who is not, therefore, likely to be fooled by the crinkum-crankums of [illegible]. We heard one of them, a day or two since, account for it, seriously, on the theory that Portland being the largest town in the State must naturally have more weather of any specified description than the little places. After forty eight hours of severe mental reflection on the subject and a careful [illegible] of Governor Whiteaker's '62 message, we are yet quite undecided about the whole matter. Won't somebody give us light?

BOOK-BINDING.—H. P. Cramer & Co. have just finished the binding of a very large family bible for Mr. C. M. Carpenter of Salem, which, as a fine piece of workmanship will compare favorably with any thing of the kind from the Eastern binderies. The style is rich and the workmanship perfect so far as we can judge. The volume is itself something far out of the ordinary line of bible works. It has over one hundred highly embellished steel engravings and over eight hundred explanatory and critical notes being a full analysis of each chapter. Some of these notes are equal to an ordinary page and, in the aggregate, they fill nearly half of the 1,059 pages which make up the volume.

WASHINGTON GUARD'S BALL.—The Washington Guards of this city, will give their 4th annual ball on the anniversary of Washington's birth, the 22d inst., at Oro Fino Hall. The Committee of Arrangements is composed of gentlemen who know [illegible], and do it right. We hope to see our citizens show their appreciation on this occasion, of this Company which has kept up a perfect organization, through many discouraging circumstances, by giving them a large attendance.

"LOWELL" OF YAMHILL COUNTY.—The Lafayette Courier, speaking of the completion of a sawmill on Panther Creek, "in the midst of an almost inexhaustible forest," adds: "Panther Creek [illegible] to be the 'Lowell' of Yamhill county." The [illegible] supposes Lowell to be a lumbering [illegible] Minnesota.

CANYON CITY QUARTZ.—Mr. W. L. H[illegible] of this city has received certificates of the assay of Canyon City quartz, which shows the yield of gold to be $101.90 per ton, and silver, $10.66. The ledge from which it was taken is three feet wide. This return shows a very flattering prospect for the Canyon City quartz mines.

THE COURTS.—The Circuit Court will resume its sitting this morning, to dispose of the remaining [illegible] causes on the docket. This being the first Monday in the month, the County Court will, also, begin its regular February term.

PROTRACTED METHODIST MEETING.—Rev. N. A. Starr has been holding [illegible] meetings during most of the winter in East Portland [illegible] several conversions and additions to the church [illegible] made under his ministry.

OVERBOARD.—During the landing of the steamer last night the rush along the [illegible] so great that two or three persons were crowded overboard into the river. Nobody seemed to know whether all [illegible].

MAILS PER STEAMER.—[illegible] The Oriflamme, which arrived last evening, brought [illegible] letter bag and twenty paper bags of mail matter.

WILLAMETTE FLOURING.—[illegible] 2,183 qr. sks. flour, [illegible] per [illegible], Feb. 2d., [illegible] 17 sks feed.

SHIPPING.—The steamship Pacific, for San Francisco, [illegible] Thursday, was still lying at the [illegible] when the Orizaba left Saturday; also the [illegible] Fidelitor, for Victoria, and several small [illegible] detained inside the bar by rough weather. [illegible] Friday [illegible] it commenced blowing heavily from [illegible] which increased to a regular gale of wind, [illegible] by a tremendous rain storm. [illegible] the wharves were thumped about by the [illegible], while others dragged their anchors. The [illegible] Cowlitz [illegible] to [illegible] port [illegible] John H. Couch. She had a terrible time in [illegible] Bay on the night of the [illegible], dragging her anchors and threatened with instant [illegible]. The [illegible] and [illegible] were expected yesterday from San Francisco. [illegible]

[illegible] The society of the Episcopal Church under [illegible] Mr. Hyland, had a very pleasant party at [illegible] on the evening of Friday. They propose [illegible] gothic church the spring [illegible]. The [illegible], with her [illegible] Urbane Purser [illegible] continues to enliven the town with her semi-weekly trips. Go on thy way rejoicing, Astorians.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.—In addition to the items we published on Saturday from the Register, we clip the following: "We learn that Postmaster Cochran has received from the Department at Washington, the necessary books and blanks, to enable him shortly to commence operations under the postal money order system, lately established by an act of Congress. Due notice will be given to all concerned......At the last regular meeting of Lincoln Lodge, No. 1, I. O. G. T., held Jan. 29th, the following persons were elected officers of said Lodge for the ensuing quarter, to wit: W. H. Goddard, W. C. T.; Carrie Banks, W. V. T.; Peter H. Fox, W. S.; Chas. Harper, W. F. S.; Jennie Rankin, W. Treas.; Chas. Henzee, W. M.; W. H. Allen, W. I. G.; J. L. Allen, W. O. G.; Theo. Johnston, P. W. C. T......Columbian Lodge, No. 41, I. O. G. RECORDER'S COURT.—On Saturday Charles McCoy was brought up for being drunk and got two days in the city jail.

THE IMPEACHMENT QUESTION.—Impeachment of the President is the common topic of the day, but we have yet to hear of any one who has ventured to impeach the prices or quality of the clothing sold by Rosman Bros.

A PERFECT JEWEL.—"My family has been using the Willcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine for the last five years. It has given entire satisfaction, and my wife considers it a PERFECT JEWEL."—Letter of P. Jarrett, Lock Haven, Pa. Stewart & Gourley, Agents, 103 Front street.

The Cause of the Return of Minister Campbell to New Orleans.

[From the Correspondence of the New York Herald.]

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.

The Mexican mission having accomplished its ends—Lieutenant General Sherman and Minister Campbell having each returned by separate routes to the States—there remains no longer any obligation of secrecy which need debar me from placing before the readers of the Herald the objects contemplated and the ends gained by the expedition. The expedition, though it has not achieved all that was expected of it, has not been by any means a failure. It has opened up communication with the Republic of Mexico, and has defined and determined upon a joint plan of action, which in the fullness of time will be adopted by the United States and the Juarez Government moving in concert.

The incidents of the Susquehanna's visit to Vera Cruz have already been made known by special telegram to the Herald. The sole reason why the members of the expedition did not land there was because the military landing place of the port is nominally in possession of the Maximilian authorities, and to have attempted a disembarkation there would have seemed an informal recognition of a Government that is not known at Washington. Nothing but courtesies passed between the French authorities and the Susquehanna. Bazaine's polite letter to General Sherman, inviting him to the City of Mexico, was replied to by General Sherman in terms equally courteous and friendly.

On leaving Vera Cruz the Susquehanna at once proceeded to Tampico, where accredited emissaries of Juarez awaited the Ambassadors of the United States. After a brief consultation they went to Matamoras, where another short council was held with the confidential agents of Juarez, and the result is that a definite and joint plan of action has been determined on between the United States and the Republic of Mexico. Immediately after the withdrawal of the French troops, which will probably take place before the 31st of March next, Juarez will transfer his seat of government to a point [illegible] not at liberty to name at present. "That point," said [illegible] General Sherman to me, "I, as a military man, consider well chosen. Their entire plans have been laid before me, and I consider them, upon the whole, judicious and prudent. Then, in the event of any fragment of Imperial power remaining, United States troops [illegible] correspondent has strong grounds for believing, will be marched over the Rio Grande to the [illegible] of Juarez, and Minister Campbell will return to the Mexican seat of government to resume his official relations with the Republic of Mexico."

This much being accomplished, I asked of Sherman, "Do you consider your mission a failure, or a success?" He replied, "To some extent a success. We are now in possession of the plans of the Juarez Government, and they know what we mean to do. Just as in mechanics the opposing pieces of centripetal and centrifugal attraction produce certain results, so in Mexico the fear of French absorption on the one hand and the dread of American annexation on the other have brought about some degree of unanimity among their leaders. I wish there was more of it; but we must hope for the best. All the United States want to see is a strong, united Government in Mexico."

Lieutenant General Sherman leaves to-morrow for St. Louis to report to General Grant, and to resume the charge of his department. Minister Campbell will remain in New Orleans to await the tide of events, and the Susquehanna will return to New York.

There remain yet some important items of general Mexican news. Maximilian left his palace prison, or Orizaba, on the 14th inst., en route for Mexico City. I was a personal witness of his departure, so often prematurely announced. His last words before getting into his carriage were—"If I am compelled to remain I will remain within the lines." On the 15th, Max. had arrived at Atlasco, six leagues beyond Puebla. His avowed purpose in going back is not to perpetuate his power, but to thwart the French and spite Bazaine. He is ready to treat with Juarez or the United States to secure this end.

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

Love's Dream—Song.

By fair Willamette's crystal stream,
While summer days were flitting
A gentle maiden rest and sang
Sang as she sat knitting,

Oh list we now to hear her song,
More sweet than lark or starling,
While deftly still her fingers flit
This dainty little darling

"Flow on to the sea, gentle river
Bring [illegible] to love to my gentle river,
My love must be as true to me,
As thou, oh river, to the sea,
For love is love for ever—for love is love forever

"As clouds from the sky, living river
Clasp [illegible] thy bosom free, loving river,
I would be like them more than this
That the clouds and river kiss,
Ere they pass and are gone forever—ere they pass and are gone forever

"Flow on to the sea, fairy river
Till my love comes to me, fairy river,
So, while sitting by the stream
I have dreamed the dearest dream
Of one that shall love me forever—of one that shall love me forever"

Thus sings the maiden sitting,
By the river with her knitting,
To her dainty fingers movement keeping time;
Even the sunshine seems to love her,
As it shines more bright above her,
But I sigh as I write my rustic rhyme,

Though I cannot choose but linger,
To watch this darling singer
Her smile for me is but of cool esteem,
And the maiden still is sitting
By the river with her knitting,
Still dreaming her own sweet dream

Fight between an Ichneumon and a Cobra.

In a letter to the Madras Times, dated Trichinopoly, signed by three officers of the Indian service, we find the following interesting account of a fight between a mongoose or ichneumon and a cobra

"We think the long vexed question whether the mongoose, on being bitten by the cobra, retires into the jungle and finds some herb as an antidote for the poison, or whether the venom of the serpent produces no effect upon the animal, has been at last settled On Saturday last, while seated in the mess house with several officers of the regiment, a servant came and stated that a snake had been seen to enter a hole in the ground close to where the guard was. We immediately sent for a mongoose (a tame one, and the property of an officer,) and put him to the hole

He soon began to scratch away the earth, and in half an hour a fine cobra, about a yard long, came forward, with head erect, and hood distended to attack the mongoose, who seemed to care nothing for the reptile, but merely jumped out of the way to avoid the blows which the snake struck at him. The mongoose, unfortunately, had just fed, consequently did not show sufficient inclination to go in at him; so we secured the snake and carried him over to one of the officer's quarters to have the contest carried on there, after the mongoose should have had some little time to get over his breakfast After a couple of hours' rest, we placed the cobra in a room, with closed doors, (we having in the meantime taken up a secure station in the room, from which we could observe all the movements of the combatants,) the mongoose was let in and the fight commenced

The moongoose approached the cobra with caution, but devoid of any appearance of fear. The cobra, with head erect and body vibrating watched his opponent with evident signs of being aware how deadly an enemy he had to deal with. The mongoose was soon within easy striking distance of the snake, who, suddenly throwing back his head, struck at the mongoose with tremendous force The moongoose, quick as thought, sprang out of reach, uttering at the same time savage growls. Again the hooded reptile rose on the defensive, and the mongoose, nothing daunted by the distended jaws and glaring eyes of his antagonist, approached so near to the snake that he was forced, not relishing such close proximity, to draw his head back considerably This lessened considerably his distance from the ground, the mongoose, at once seeing the advantageous opportunity, sprang at the cobra's head, and appeared to inflict as well as receive a wound. Again the combatants put themselves in a position to renew the encounter again the snake struck at his wily opponent, and again the latter's agility saved him.

It would be tedious to recount in further detail the particulars of about a dozen successive rounds, at the end of which time neither combatant seemed to suffer more than the other, we will limit ourselves to describing the final and most interesting encounter. The fight had lasted about three quarters of an hour and both combatants seemed to nerve themselves for a final encounter The cobra changing his position of defense for that of attack, seemed determined to do or die slowly on his watchful enemy the cobra advanced, with equal courage the mongoose awaited the advance of his still unvanquished foe. The cobra had now approached so close that the mongoose, owing to want of space behind, was unable to spring out of reach by jumping backward, as he had done in the previous encounters, nimbly bounded straight up in the air The cobra missed his object and struck the ground under him Immediately on the mongoose alighting, the cobra, quick as thought, struck again, and to all appearance fixed his fangs in the head of the mongoose The mongoose, as the cobra was withdrawing his head after having inflicted the bite, instantly retaliated by fixing his teeth in the head of the cobra. This seemed to convince the cobra that he was no match for his fierce and watchful antagonist, and now no longer exhibiting a head erect and defiant eye, unfolded his coil and ignominiously slunk away. Instantly the mongoose was on his retreating foe, and burying his teeth in his brain, at once ended the contest. The mongoose now set to work to devour his victim, and in a few minutes had eaten the head and two or three inches of the body, including the venom so dreaded by all. We should have mentioned before, that, previous to this encounter, the snake had struck an owl which died within half an hour of the infliction of the bite showing beyond doubt its capability of inflicting a death wound

After the mongoose had satisfied his appetite we proceeded to examine with a pocket lens the wounds which he received from the cobra, and washing away the blood from one of those places, the lens discovered the broken fang of the cobra imbedded in the head of the mongoose To discover whether there was any truth in the assertion that the mongoose owes its impunity from the bite of the most venomous serpents to its knowledge of an herb which is an antidote to the poison, or whether, on the other hand, a prophylactic exists in the blood of this extraordinary animal, rendering it innocuous to the bite a reptile fatal to all other animals, we have had the mongoose confined ever since (now four days ago), and it is now as healthy and lively as ever. We consider, therefore, that there no longer exists a doubt th[illegible] the blood of the mongoose there is a prophylactic, and that the idea that it derives its impunity fr[illegible] herb is one of many popular errors."

A Veritable Instance of Snake Charming.—That the serpent is endowed with the power to charm birds, which they capture, and the ability to fascinate the larger animals and even to influence the intellect of man, is an old and well established theory

A marvelous incident of this character has just been brought to our notice A little boy four or five years of age of Irish parentage in Brockton county, was in the habit, during the whole of last summer, of going out to the woods near his home, to play with his "pretty things," as he called them After much persuasion one day his mother was induced to follow him to his play grounds to see what attracted him so much when to her horror she discovered her darling playing with a trio of huge black snakes wholly unconscious of his peril The boy was completely fascinated, and would advance and retreat and sport and dally with his hideous comrades as if he were in the charmed circle of his brothers and sisters The mother in terror ran to the house crying for help when the father of the lad rushed to the rescue of his boy, and after some difficulty killed the snakes Wonderful to note—and we have this information from a gentleman of unquestionable veracity—the little boy [illegible] to his bed from which he never rose—he pined away and died—an early victim to the fascination of the serpent —[illegible]

Mr Nasby at the Tomb of a Friend

Confedrit X Roads,
(wich is in the State uv Kentucky)
December 1[illegible] 18[illegible]

I heard nearly 2 months ago that my old friend John Guttle, uv Mobeel, hed departed this life and went to that other and better world where the wicked cease from troublin and the weery are at rest and wuz profoundly shocked John Guttle wuz my friend and I much feel his loss I never shall look upon his like again He wuz a Dimocrat uv the old skool, wun uv the few lingerin remnants that connect the present generashun with the past Well do I remember the glorious old times I hev often spent at the plantashun in his country residence and drank whiskey and water with him till we neither one of us could see a hole thru a forty foot ladder, how many times he flogged niggers for my amusement to show me the proper way uv managin uv em and how meny times hez he lent me small sums uv money, varyin from five to thirty one dollars, accordin to the state uv wellerness he wuz in when I approached him on the delikit subjeck! Alas! poor John Guttle! Let not the skoffer say that I regret his death becoz his sons will be apt to try and collect the notes the old man departed holdin uv mine! No! no they know me too well to waste any time on that I mourn becoz I loved him and becoz uv the misfortunes wich druv him to a premature grave A Linkin is responsible for this dark shudder on to my pathway. John Guttle had 300 niggers on his plantashens and in his house in town—these wuz wrenched from him by the Proclamashen and turned out from his paternal care to starve, wich the most uv em are industriously doin at about $3 per day. He hed em uv all hues—there wuz the full blooded black, the disgustin Mulatter, the pleasant Quadroon, the butiful Octoroon, and them wich hed so nearly lost the cuss uv Ham ez to be hardly distinguishable from the pure Caucashun, and it wuz noticeable that the nearly white niggers on the Guttle plantashens wuz all butiful The Guttleses theirselves wuz perfect specimens uv manly buty, and it probably hed its effeck on the blacks The nigger is an imitative animal

It wuz this robbin uv him uv his property—this overturnin uv the normal condishen uv things—wich killed John Guttle He never held up his head after the Proclamashen, but faded away like a frostid flower!

I wuz in Mobeel last week on bisnis connected with our college (it wuz solisitin funds to endow my Professorship), and I felt that I cood not leave the city without droppin a dozzen teers or sich onto his grave I felt es he had contributed at various times to moisten my clay that it would be ungentlemanly not to do suthin toward moistenin hizzen And in persuance uv my resolve I wended my way sadly to the cemetery, and, findin the tomb, struck an attitood of despare, and, leanin pensively onto the monument, strove, to the best uv my ability, to weep, but it wuz a futile endevor My eyes wouldn't give down I strove to recall his virchoos but sich is the weakness uv human nacher that whenever his form roze in my memory my mind involuntarily wandered to his whiskey, and my mouth would water to such an extent as to monopolize all the moisture of my system I could hev spit onto his grave, but weep I cood not. Alas! for poor humanity!

When I wuz standin there tryin to weep, and makin a bad fist uv it, I notist three beautiful young ladies approachin, with baskits of hot house flowers a hangin onto their arms I recognized em to wunst They wuz John Guttle's daughters, and they wuz a comin to strew flowers onto the grave uv their paternal ancestor on their father's side It wuz a techin site, and feelin that I wuz a introoder, not bein a blood relashun and only connected with the deceest by notes uv hand I withdrew a short distants Scasely hed they got to the tomb, when from the other side approached three more ravishingly beautiful young ladies with baskits uv hot house flowers onto their arms. The last ones resembled in a strikin manner the fust ones, ceptin they wuz a shade darker, and their hair waved booteful, whereas the hair of the fust wuz perfectly strate

The two parties faced each other on opposite sides uv the toom, and party Number One glared fiercely at party Number Two

"Lize! Flora! Jane!" sed the oldest uv party Number One, "wat are you doin here?"

"Sisters," sed the oldest uv party Number Two, "we're here dischargin a filyel dooty Beneath these sod lies the remains uv our father, and we are goin to strew these flowers onto his toom Jine us in the strew"

"Father!" shreeked the three of party Number One. "Your all niggers, and wuz servants unto"—

"Our half sisters," sed the spokesman uv party Number Two, "but Linkin removed the cuss uv Ham, and we're now free, and hev ez much right to strew the graves uv our common parient, wich wuz John Guttle, ez you Oh! our sisters our father wuz a good man, let us bedew his grave with our teers and"—

"Wat impudence!" shrieked party Number One all in korus

"Impudence yourself!" retorted party Number Two, gettin red in the face "We are John Guttle's daughters precisely ez much ez you, and you have no advantage over us in the article uv mothers You three hev wun wich wuz John Guttle's wife, while we three hev three—one a piece eggsackly—wich wuz John Guttle's servants, but we can't nevertheless stifle our emoshuns I shel command myself, and thus proceed to perform a sot uv filyal dooty"

And she busted out the flowers and commenced to strew

The tother wuns wuz a gettin hot The oldest wun cood stand this impudence no longer, and droppin her basket, went after her followed by her sisters. It wuz a spirited conflict, and lasted perhaps four minutes, or until I parted 'em when they gathered themselves together and departed—one party went wun way, and tother tother.

Filyel love hed done more in the strawin bizness than it sot out to do The six lovin daughters uv deceest John had not only strewed flowers onto his grave, but hair, and waterfalls, and cotton, and false teeth, and collars, and buzzum pins and shreds of silk, and pieces uv almost everything wich goes to make up the sum total uv female attire

Ez I gazed at the wreck and saw their tattered forms vanish in the dim distance, I cood not help admittin that when it comes to strewin the graves uv deceast ancestors there wuz some disadvantage attendin the particular system

Death of an Edinburgh Celebrity —The Scotsman has a pleasant sketch of the life of the late Bernard Barker, known in his own neighborhood as the "King of the Cowgate" He was renowned for his benevolence Often eccentric, he never failed to aid the poor His public charities were large in comparison with his means But his private benefactions were innumerable The Scotsman says On Saturday evening he regularly laid in a large store of loaves which he unostentatiously distributed among the poor families on Sunday, and had it not been for Mr Barker's loaf, many a beggar prohibited from "going out on Sunday, would have to go without food all day But it was not alone by direct charity that Mr Barker effected good He encouraged honesty frugality, the habit of well doing and thrift among the laboring classes, amid whom he dwelt He became banker on behalf of the poor, invited them to lodge small sums with him at stated periods, to enable them to pay the rent, purchase a new suit of clothes, or any such thing It is not surprising that the funeral procession of such a man should have "extended to upward of a mile, from five to eight persons walking abreast ""

Wife Selling in France —There still exists, among even well informed French people, a tradition that in England a husband commonly puts a halter round his wife's neck, leads her to Smithfield, and sells her to the highest bidder A laborer named Martin, aged 30, at Vire (Calvados) recently went still further He not only sold his wife and a cupboard together for five francs to a young man named Vautier, but assisted the latter by force to take possession of his purchase For this grave offense the two men have just been tried at the Court of Assizes of Caen The hearing of the case took place with closed doors, and the jury having returned a verdict of guilty, but with extenuating circumstances Martin was condemned to eight years' hard labor, and Vautier to five years' imprisonment

Revision of the Jewish Ceremonial Law —The rabbis of Europe are to assemble in Paris, next year, in order that the Sanhedrim may take place in conjunction with the Universal Exhibition. The Central Jewish Committee at Paris has taken the initiative of the meeting which will be especially called on to decide the following questions The abolition of the prohibition of certain articles of food the suppression of polygamy which exists among the Jews at Algeria and the recognition of female children as equally qualified to inherit in that country

Our Leading Universities

It is generally agreed among our scholars and [illegible] that the great educational need of America is a real university The chances are that this institution whenever it arises will come by a process of development, rather than by a new creation It will probably grow out of one or more of our present colleges We have felt some interest therefore in comparing the last annual [illegible] of Yale and the University of Michigan, and have been rather surprised at [illegible] national character they have assumed

In point of numbers Michigan leads, having 1,205 students of whom 331 are undergraduates Harvard has 961, of whom 419 are undergraduates Yale has 682 of whom 430 are undergraduates

As to the variety of States in the Union represented, Michigan does not, (to our surprise) exhibit so many as the Eastern colleges which in this respect keep closely together Yale represents 24 States in her undergraduate department, and 26 in all, Harvard 22 States among her undergraduates and 25 in all Michigan represents 17 States in her undergraduate department and 21 in all

Students are however more equally distributed among these different States in Yale than in Harvard, and in Michigan than in Yale Out of 125 freshmen at Harvard 43 (about one third) reside out of New England Out of 156 freshmen at Yale 89 reside out of New England many of course, coming from the neighboring city of New York

The Southern States are gradually being represented once more in our colleges if not in Congress, and thus at Harvard rather than at Yale, which was formerly the favorite college of Southern students Harvard has undergraduates from seven slave States, Yale from five Michigan from three only, not counting, in either case, the District of Columbia.

Of course, New England States are more largely represented in Harvard the Middle States in Yale and the Western States in Michigan

Of foreign localities, we find in the Yale catalogue France, China, Syria, India, and the Sandwich Islands—most of these being probably represented by some of the missionaries The Michigan catalogue shows France, England Nova Scotia, and the two Canadas Harvard shows England, Liberia and seven British provinces—the last contributing 10 students to her medical school

Harvard always leads Yale in the graduate department, and falls behind in respect to undergraduates This is partly owing no doubt to the higher standard of requirements for admission at Cambridge For instance, a young man applying for admission to Harvard must have read the whole of Virgil, of Cæsar, and of Cicero's Orations At Yale the demand is limited to a part of Virgil and of Cicero, Sallust being substituted for Cæsar, for which it certainly is not more than an equivalent In Greek and in mathematics there is also some disparity This must often turn the scale with young men whose time and means are limited. In the Michigan University the requirements are less in amount and less definite, the system being less stringent in all ways

So far as the arrangements for post graduate studies go, Harvard is behind the two others, having, beside her professional schools only a "scientific school" and not, like the others a department of literature and the arts" For the present it may practically amount to much the same, but it is very important to recognize at the outset, a wider definition of science than that which limits it to physics and natural history. When the "Lawrence Scientific School" at Harvard, was originally organized, it included provision for philological study, but there seems to be nothing of the kind now At Yale, besides the "Sheffield Scientific School" there is an organized department, which "provides advanced courses in mathematics, philology, history, and metaphysics," though it does not appear how many students it numbers An enlarged plan seems also to be recognized by the Michigan University

There is, on the other hand, a system of University Lectures at Cambridge, adapted to graduates generally, which seems to have more of the university principle about it than anything at Yale It is understood that there is at Harvard an "Academical Senate," which is composed of all the officers of instruction in the institution It has always seemed an absurdity that the management of our colleges should rest with a so called Faculty consisting largely of young tutors who are employed to teach the under graduates Surely, in a true university, the more advanced departments should have in all respects the leading place

It appears from this brief summary that we have already three collegiate institutions which by their numbers and their cosmopolitan character (so far as this continent is concerned,) are fairly on the way to become true universities. It appears also that in their organization and plan of study—especially of graduate study—they are adapting themselves to the demands of the age Whatever competition exists between them is of an honorable and useful order, and as, in so large a nation, there must ultimately be more than one great educational centre, we rejoice in the prosperity of all —N Y Independent

A Scandinavian Story

The following is from a work entitled "Iceland its legends"

"One Autumn six men went on search in the sheep walks with their leader, who was a strong man and dauntless withal When they had reached the farthest point of their search, a storm came on with a heavy snow fall, and the men lost their way, not knowing their way, and not knowing where they were After a long walk they found that their path led down hill, and soon they found themselves in a small valley, and, having by chance come across a house, they knocked at the door There came out an old fellow, ugly and mighty rascally looking, and said it was a new thing for strangers to come and pry around his dwelling, and looked with ungleeful eye on his guests The leader spoke for them all, and told him how they happened to come thither, and having told the old fellow this, he stepped inside the door with all his men, without waiting for the inhospitable man's leave or refusal

When they had sat for awhile, meat was brought them on dishes, by a young damsel of downcast mien She whispered to the guests as she gave the meat, 'Eat only of the meat on the edge of the dish farthest from you.' They looked and were soon sure that all at the edge was mutton, but all the other human flesh When they had finished the girl removed the meat from the table and took the wet clothes from the strangers to dry them, and said in a low voice, 'Be watchful do not take off your underclothes, neither sleep!' It was a moonlight night, and the leader lay in a bed in the shadow, and told his comrades that they should not move or speak till he called them Shortly after they had gone to rest, the old man came in, and going to the bed side of one of his guests, touched his breast and said, 'Lean breast and craven' And in the same way he felt them all uttering the like welling at every one, till at last when he came to the leader's bed and felt his breast he said, 'Fat breast and mettlesome' And in the same moment he turned to a nook in the room and seized on to an ax, and returned with it to the bed of the leader But the latter seeing what was to come, sprang nimbly from his bed wherein the old cannibal dealt a blow, missing him of course, but the leader now seized the ax and wrung it from the wretch's hand, who roared out 'Up, my twelve in the devil's name!' Now the leader drove the ax in the old man's pate, and he fell dead on the spot Then the leader said, 'Up my six in Jesus' name!' When he had thus called upon his followers a trap door was opened in the floor, and there came up the head of a man But the leader was not long in cutting it off, and thus he killed twelve of them in the open trap door of a cellar which was under the floor

After this they found the girl who had waited on them in the evening who turned out to be a farmer's daughter, from [illegible] whom the old man had stolen and would force against her will to marry his oldest son

But she bore an unutterable loathing to them all chiefly because they killed every one that came to them who had lost his way and then eat their flesh Here the men found many precious things, and many sheep in the valley They agreed that the leader should remain, and one man with him to comfort the girl, and to watch the sheep during the winter, in order that they might not starve for want of care But the others returned home —Next spring the leader brought the girl home and afterwards with the consent of her father married her and moved everything that he found in the valley to the North began farming and lived a happy and lucky life with his wife to a high age

A New W[illegible]—"Phot[illegible]"—A correspondent proposes to rectify a manifest error introduced of late years into our language in the pro[illegible] invention Photograph has a termination [illegible] voted to the verb active or therefore to the name of the agent, photogram is the proper form for the name of the effect or product The usage [illegible] is unimpeachable The same argument by which the introduction of the word telegram was successfully enforced requires us to accept "photogram" We might as properly speak of [illegible] telegraph, as of buying a photograph Both are alike horrent to classical order The reason is that graph is the root of the present active—to write or using the participle substantively—anything writing while gram is the root of the perfect passive—written or substantively, anything written —Scientific American

Remains Found —About December 27th the remains of a man were found on Ura river, near the Washington District Nevada An inquest was held and the remains were found to be those of Henry [illegible] formerly of Worcester Mass [illegible] In July, 1861 the deceased in company with Messrs Kittridge and Curtis [illegible] camped near Reyesville, and on or about [illegible] Mr [illegible] started for the [illegible] of what is now known as the Washington Mining District with several pack animals Several days after the animals were found feeding near the camp Both of them became alarmed made diligent search, but no trace of the missing man could be found and the matter was forgotten until after the lapse of nearly three and a half years, accident revealed the mystery The clothing of the deceased have been recognized by Mr Kittridge There is no doubt as to the identification of the remains —Reese River Reveille

Presence of Mind —The Grass Valley Union tells how a thunder storm caused a bevy of young ladies of that village to divest themselves of their steel spring hoops

Four or five young ladies had gathered at the house of a friend for the purpose of spending the evening They were all congregated in the sitting room when the lightning commenced playing about the windows With one accord they jumped up and began divesting themselves of their steel spring hoops for the first time in their lives endeavoring to prevent themselves from being objects of attraction

A story is told of a man living out West, who completes eight pairs of large sized boots every day The editor of a New York paper says, It would be considered small doings in this city—there is a shoemaker down in the Swamp who, as fast as he finishes a boot throws it over his shoulder into a box behind him He keeps one in the air all the time and don't half try"

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans
